SAYS BIBLE IS 'BEST SELLER'

So Says The Rev. Dr. Herbert C. Alleman Addressing College Lutheran Congregation.

750,000,000 BIBLES OUT

American Bible Society Unable to Keep up With Birth Rate of World, Says Speaker; Tells of Popularity.

In inauguration of Universal Bible Sunday in America, the College Lutheran Church, on Sunday, held special services during which Rev. Dr. Herbert C. Alleman, of the Theological Seminary here, a member of the advisory board of the American Bible Society, placed before the congregation facts pertinent to the publication and distribution of the Bible by the society.

"In spite of the fact that during the past 100 years over 750,000,000 Bibles have been printed, there are still not enough Bibles in the world to supply each person, and the publication of the Book cannot catch up to the birthrate of the earth," said Dr. Alleman.

"Since the invention of printing in the year 1450, during which time the number of books of all kinds which have been put out by printers is beyond calculation, the Bible has never been out of press, and has continued to be the world's 'best seller' during all of these 467 years.

"During the last 100 years the American Bible Society has printed 550,000,000 copies of the Bible in no less than 775 different languages and dialects of the world.

Reason for Popularity
"The reason for this continued popularity of the Bible lies in what the Book is. In its contents, charged with Faith and Light, lies its ability to find its way into the hearts of all (Continued on Second Page.)

BARROOM IS NOW ORANGE ROOM AT EAGLE HOTEL

All Vestiges of Former Drinking Emporium Have Been Obliterated.

With the announcement today of the opening of the Orange Room at the Eagle Hotel, the passing of the barroom is brought home more forcibly than ever to those who in years gone by found solace along "the mahogany." After considerable repair work all vestiges of the former drinking emporium have been obliterated. Walls done in orange and black have taken the place of the be-mired surroundings; the swinging doors have given way to more substantial portals, and draperies in harmony with the color scheme of the room replace the frosted windows. The room will be available for card parties, small private dances and banquets, the management announces.

FORMER COUNTY VETREAN DIES IN YORK AT 81

William A. Toot Was Born in Strabon Township; Has Two Sisters Here.

William A. Toot, native of Adams county and veteran of the Civil War, died at his home in York Saturday at the age of 81 years. The immediate cause of death was cerebral embolism.

Mr. Toot was born in Strabon township, moving to York about forty years ago. His first wife, now deceased, was Miss Amanda Mummert, of Strabon township.

He is survived by four children: Miss Gertrude, at home; Miss Edna, of Reading, and Hal and Walter, both of New York City. Two sisters, Mrs. Amanda Grove and Miss Ella Toot, of Gettysburg, also survive.

Funeral services Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his home in York. Interment in York.

RAIN PREDICTED ON THANKSGIVING

Gloomy Day Predicted For Final Football Game of Season on Thursday.

Thanksgiving Day, when all Americans in general and football fans in particular hope for the best kind of weather, promises to be cloudy and probably rainy, if the Washington weather forecast for the week for this section is borne out.

The temperature, which is of no consequence to most persons provided the day is fair, is predicted to range about normal.

Optimists will refuse to allow the forecasts of the weather bureau to cloud their hopes for a day of pleasure on the holiday, and the turkey dinners will undoubtedly be eaten regardless of rain or shine, but only the most ardent fans will saunter forth to watch the final football game of the season when Gettysburg meets Franklin-Marshall, the final pigskin event of the year.

JOHN W. ZEIGLER FALLS OFF SEAT OF WAGON DEAD

Prominent Farmer of Latimore Township Stricken While Returning Home From Canning Factory in York Springs; Died Instantly; Aged 71 Years.

Stricken by a heart attack as he was driving home from a canning factory in York Springs, John W. Zeigler, prominent farmer of Latimore township, fell backward off his seat on the wagon and died instantly, Saturday. Persons who saw Mr. Zeigler topple off the wagon seat and saw the horses veer from the roadway ran to the assistance of the stricken man, but death had occurred instantly.

In apparently good health, Mr. Zeigler left his home in Latimore township between 9 and 10 o'clock Saturday morning with a load of apples for the William Grove Canning Company at York Springs.

Having unloaded the apples at the canning factory, Mr. Zeigler started toward home. When the team had gone about fifty yards from the canning factory, eyewitnesses saw Mr. Zeigler fall backward off his seat on the wagon, still keeping his hold on the reins.

The animals shied from the roadway and started onto the pavement, while passersby shouted at them to stop. A tree in the path of the wagon brought the vehicle to a stop. Persons who reached Mr. Zeigler first found life extinct. He was stricken about 11 o'clock.

Mr. Zeigler, who was aged 71 years and 18 days, is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Irvine R. Spangler, of Aspers, and Mrs. George (Continued on Fourth Page)

Dr. A. E. Wagner, pastor of the church, will have charge of the program.

The Rev. Earl J. Bowman, pastor of St. James Lutheran church, will preach the sermon, his subject being announced as "Reasons for Thanksgiving, and the Danger of Forgetting God."

Each of the Gettysburg pastors will be given some part in the program, and during the services the Thanksgiving proclamation of President Coolidge will be read. It is announced that the thank offering will be turned over to the Civic Nursing Association.

Thanksgiving Day will be a complete holiday, and not a wheel will turn in Gettysburg plants and industrial establishments. Banks will be closed, as will most

First Deer Hunters Pass Through on Way to Camps

Proximity of Annual Deer Hunting Season Revealed in Trip Through Favorite Haunts of South Mountains; Tents Being Pitched and Permanent Lodges Opened; Deer Reported Big and Plentiful.

Red-capped and khaki-coated hunters, the vanguard of the hundreds which will swarm the east and west slopes of the South Mountains after December 1, when the deer hunting season opens, passed through Gettysburg on Sunday.

A number of automobiles and automobile trucks, each with its quota of sportsmen and their hunting paraphernalia, was seen in Gettysburg en route to camps in deer-hunting haunts in the South Mountains in the western part of Adams county.

A trip through the Buchanan Valley section of the South Mountains on Sunday revealed the nearness of the annual deer hunting season. Tents were being pitched and permanent lodges were being thrown open by the early comers.

At the home of Samuel Irvin, in the Buchanan Valley section, where a number of Gettysburg hunters lodge during the hunting season, preparations are being made for the annual influx of visitors. The Irvin home is in the heart of the deer runs, and, according to reports there, the fleet-footed denizens of the mountains are more plentiful this year than last. This is borne out by reports from other sections of the mountains and from County Game Warden Leo Bushman.

Old mountain sportsmen declare that the racks of the deer this year are exceptionally big, deer having been seen with from four to eight points. In the Caledonia region, does are reported to be unusually abundant, and travellers on the Lincoln Highway report seeing large herds of them in the woods which border the road at that place.

With the deer season opening on Saturday this year, it is not thought likely that the intensive drive against the antlered tribe will start before Monday, although a number of camps will go into the field and brush on the first day. The limit of one deer to a hunter, but not more than six to a camp will govern the number killed this year as heretofore.

Some of the better known deer hunting camps on the east slope of the South Mountain, most of which will begin hunting at daylight Saturday, are: Marsh Creek, Kane, Arendaville, Bendersville, Bigler, New York Springs, Camp 18, Brysonia, New Chester, New Oxford, Monterey, McKnightstown, Orrtanna, Taylor, Wenksville and Pitzer's.

C. OF C. SMOKER TO HAVE AS GUEST LADY NICOTINE

No Business to be Introduced, Thought of or Talked About At Session.

Arrangements are practically completed and a large attendance expected at the Chamber of Commerce Smoker which will be held in the parlor of the Fire Engine House on East Middle street Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, it was reported today by the committee in charge.

The affair marks the first of a series of winter membership activities which will be held. The Board of Directors authorized this event at its November meeting.

The smoker is of an informal nature which will serve to bring the membership together and also introduce Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, new president of Gettysburg College, to the business men of Gettysburg. Dr. Hanson, who incidentally is the Chamber's newest member, will be the speaker of the evening. He is a great believer in Chamber of Commerce organizations and their possibilities to do good in a community. Dr. Hanson prior to coming to Gettysburg was one of the main figures in the Chamber of Commerce of Harrisburg in which organization he was a member of the directorate.

Cards have been sent out to all the members urging them not to forget the date or fail to attend. Indications already point to a large attendance.

Lady Nicotine will reign in every form and tasty refreshments will be served.

"A Good Time" is the slogan for all and there will be absolutely no business introduced, transacted or even thought about, it was stated.

PREACHES ON JOSEPH TO FATHERS AND SONS

Large Audience Hears Rev. Earl J. Bowman on Sunday Evening.

St. James Lutheran church was crowded Sunday evening when the pastor, Rev. Earl J. Bowman, delivered a sermon on the subject, "The Ideal Son." The service was part of the celebration in connection with Father and Son Week, now being observed throughout the country, and the main part of the auditorium was filled with fathers and sons.

Rev. Mr. Bowman took Joseph as the ideal son, declaring that he had found God; that he was not ashamed of his religion when away from home and among strangers; that he was morally clean; that he had a forgiving nature and that he honored his father. Music for the occasion was furnished by a male chorus which sang two numbers: "Now the Day is Over" and "Good Bless My Boy," and by Mr. Meyers, of Gettysburg College, who sang a solo.

NO FUNDS IN FOR AGED PENSIONERS

Last Legislature Merely Appropriated Funds For Starting Commission.

Although the last Legislature passed a measure known as the "Pennsylvania Old-Age Assistance act" intended to assist aged persons suffering privations through lack of funds, the act carries no appropriation for such assistance. As a consequence, those who are entitled to help will be required to wait until the next session of the Legislature, two years hence.

What the Legislature did at the last session was to appropriate a sum of money with which to establish an Old Age Pension Commission, which is functioning in Harrisburg at present. However, the appropriation given this Commission was small in comparison with what will be needed to take care of all the claims presented to it.

The Old Age Commission has brought to the attention of residents of Pennsylvania the terms under which the Old Age Pensions will be paid when appropriations are forthcoming. The terms under which persons over 70 are entitled to compensations were given through these columns recently.

Since then, Miss Margaret McMillan, secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, has received appeals for State aid from a number who feel they qualify under the provisions of the act, the impression having been given that funds for the old age assistance were available. This is not the case, nor has Miss McMillan been made the (Continued on Third Page)

"Wild Cats" Give Good Account of Themselves in Grid Contest

Score Two Touchdowns in First Period of Listless and Featureless Game Against Gallaudet Here Saturday Afternoon; Is Gettysburg's Sixth Straight Victory.

Ten second varsity players, augmented by the presence in the lineup of George "Haps" Mordan, varsity halfback, who acted as captain, trounced Gallaudet in a listless and featureless football game on Nixon field, Saturday afternoon, by the score 14 to 0.

Gallaudet being a school in Washington, D. C., for the deaf and dumb, all of the noisemaking developed upon the Gettysburg cheering stands, and when these were hushed, silence reigned over the twenty-two players and the visitors' supporters.

It must be said for the Gallaudet eleven that it played a plucky, fighting game, but at no time was it dangerous on the offensive. It was Gettysburg's sixth straight victory.

Gettysburg's second team, which Coach W. W. Wood has dubbed the "Wild Cats," registered their two touchdowns in the opening period, although no less than three times afterward they knocked at the Gallaudet goal, but were refused admittance.

Rose's try for a placement in the opening period having gone wide of its mark, Gettysburg began its march toward the visitors' goal, with Hartig, Wells, Fauber and Mordan carrying the ball for good gains through the line. When within striking distance, Hartig took the pigskin across for

AUTO DRIVERS IN NO DANGER

Motor Clubs Advise Members to Get in Touch in Case of Difficulty.

Motorists who have applied for but have not received title certificates are in no danger of being stopped and requested to show proof of application by police authorities, according to motorists here, the information coming from automobile clubs and associations with which they are affiliated.

While stating that the exact letter of the law provides that "no motorist shall own or operate" a motor vehicle after November 24, without a title certificate, the State Highway Department has made it very plain that it will consider all applications that were in its hands, or that were placed in the mail by Saturday as being valid titles, and that no owner may have any fear that he will not be permitted to drive his car because of non-possession of a title certificate, declare those in touch with the situation.

Going still further, automobile clubs are advising that after title certificates are received it is inadvisable to carry them about or to let them accompany the car. These certificates, they say, should be placed in a safe deposit box, or other place, so that, should the car be stolen, proof of ownership remains. In case of any difficulty arising through non-receipt of title certificates, motorists are advised to get in touch with their respective clubs, where proper action may be taken toward straightening out the matter.

HARD COAL USERS MEET IN PARLEY

Differences in Opinion Crop Out Among Representatives of States.

URGE GOVERNORS TO ACT

Plea is Made They Use Their Powers of Office to Enforce Regulations of Industry.

(By Associated Press)

Harrisburg, Nov. 26.—Differences of opinion upon methods of regulating the anthracite coal industry were apparent today among delegates of anthracite consuming states who met here at the invitation of Governor Pinchot to devise a program of legislation intended to keep down prices. The Pennsylvania executive, in an address prepared for delivery at the opening of the conference at 2:30 o'clock, submitted a plan proposing a union of anthracite using states for the formation of a joint commission to enforce regulations which may be agreed upon. Such a commission, he said, in cooperation with Federal authority over interstate commerce, could completely regulate the entire industry.

He urged the governors to exercise all the powers of their offices and proposed further action by the Federal government.

The states of Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island joined in a memorandum prepared by E. C. Hultman, Massachusetts' fuel administrator and delegate for Governor Cox, of Massachusetts, for submission to the conference later. This memorandum declared Pennsylvania has complete jurisdiction over the industry and flayed the State for its anthracite coal tax, its miners' license law, and for freight rates within the state.

The governor in his address defended the state laws now in force including the anthracite tax, the repeal of which he is opposed to.

"PROFESSOR" WAS FIRST RANK HERO

Leg Shot Away, Princeton Man Led Charge That Took Trench.

Washington, Nov. 26.—This is the story of the "Professor" as revealed by the records of the war department. The "Professor" is Dr. L. Wardlaw Miles, at present head master of the Gibman Country School for Boys, Baltimore, formerly instructor in English at Princeton University, who stepped out of his scholastic environment into the army, in spite of the fact that he was over age and under weight, won the congressional medal of honor, the highest decoration in the gift of his country, and then went quietly back, crippled, but uncomplaining, to the life of a teacher.

Those who know what he did in France get incoherent when they try to tell it. Even the concise narrative of the citation cannot keep the thrill out of the picture.

"L. Wardlaw Miles, captain, 308th Infantry, Seventy-seventh division, for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy near Reville, France, September 14, 1918. Captain Miles volunteered to lead his company in a hazardous attack on a commanding trench position near the Aisne canal, which other troops had previously attempted to take without success.

"His company immediately met with intense machine-gun fire, against which it had no artillery assistance, but Captain Miles preceded the first wave and assisted in cutting a passage through the enemy's wire entanglement. In so doing he was wounded five times, both legs and one arm being fractured, whereupon he ordered himself placed on a stretcher and had himself carried forward to the enemy trench in order that he might encourage and direct his company, which by this time had suffered numerous casualties.

"Under the inspiration of this officer's indomitable spirit his men held the hostile position and consolidated the front line after an action lasting two hours, at the conclusion of which Captain Miles was carried to the aid station against his will."

This record stands out the more dramatically because of its sober background. Captain Miles was born in 1873, a nephew of General Hugh L. Scott, former chief of staff of the army. He was always a student. In 1894 he was given his degree of B. A. at Johns Hopkins. In 1897 he received an M. D. from the University of Maryland. 1902 he earned his Ph. D. from Johns Hopkins, and shortly afterward became a member of the faculty at Princeton and soon became an assistant professor.

When war was declared Doctor Miles was nearly 45 years old and was already gray haired. He was not up to the prescribed weight, was only five feet seven inches tall, and had a wife (formerly Miss Catherine Stockton, of Princeton, descendant of an old and distinguished family) and three children, but he joined the reserve officers' training corps at the university and, at the close of the college year, obtained a leave of absence from the faculty and went to Plattsburg for intensive training.

He went through the course with the younger men, and was finally commissioned lieutenant and attached to a regiment made up for the most part of East Side New Yorkers, who, observing their officer's erudite appearance and learning of his occupation, promptly dubbed him "Professor."

Those who spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Woltz, East Middle street, were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Heberling and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Woltz and children, of Newville, this State.

The Ladies Aid Society of Trinity Reformed church will meet Tuesday night at the parsonage on Carlisle street.

BRITISH LIQUOR SHIP IS SEIZED

Schooner Tomako Captured 6 Miles Off Coast By Cutters.

SMUGGLER KING IS HELD

200 Cases of Whisky, All Left of 4,200 Cases Brought From Bahamas, Taken After Chase.

New York, Nov. 26.—The British auxiliary schooner Tomako, most adventurous of all the rum-carrying craft of the Atlantic, fell into the hands of Coast Guards early Sunday after being fired on six miles off Seabright, N. J. In her hold was found William ("Rummy Bill") McCoy, characterized by the Government agents as the "rum smuggler king."

A machine gun was captured on the schooner and another was tossed overboard by the rum runners, their captors said. The Coast Guard cutters Seneca and Lexington, operating on information furnished by Treasury Department special agents that the Tomako was off Seabright, lying in close to dispose of 200 cases of whisky—all that remained of a 4,200-case cargo shipped recently in the Bahamas—proceeded to Sandy Hook along before day-break.

Sighted At Dawn As dawn broke the Lexington sighted the schooner, its two sticks standing over the top of an early morning haze, and sent a radio message to the Seneca to proceed. When the cutters were a short distance away a lookout aboard the schooner announced their approach. Immediately the little vessel's sea anchor was awaigh, her auxiliary engine began throbbing and she was scampering to sea.

But the speed of the little vessel, which has taken part in many of the largest rum-carrying expeditions from the Bahamas, according to Government agents, could not match that of the cutters, and in less than a quarter of an hour they were close upon her heels.

Fight Way on Board A party of five from the cutter was dispatched in a small boat to board the schooner. As they climbed over the side several members of the crew attempted to push them back, and a likely fight ensued during which at least three members of the schooner's crew got bloody noses and sore heads.

Rounded up, the crew of eight, including the schooner's master, George Downey, were sent aboard the Lexington. Downey declared he was not liable to seizure, as the 12-mile treaty between Great Britain and the United States involving rum-carrying boats had not become effective.

McCoy Had $30,000 Meanwhile, the boarding party searched the schooner and down in a held they found McCoy, crouching among the remaining 200 cases of the original 4,200-case cargo. In his pockets were found bank notes for $40,000 and in the cabin safe were $30,000 more. All this McCoy said had been received from the smuggler boats of New Jersey that visited the ship on rum row.

"I'm within my rights outside the three-mile limit and all the customs agents and prohibition agents and reformers in the United States can go hang; for I'll beat them," McCoy is alleged to have said as he left the schooner.

All Placed in Jail The Tomako was towed to the Battery and her crew and McCoy, who is said to be under Federal indictment for violation of the prohibition laws, were placed in jail. He has been sought for five months by Treasury Department agents from Daytona, Fla., to Portland, Maine.

All members of the Tomako's crew had been given their share of the cargo profits and had dollar-filled pockets when taken to the barge office. There were several youngsters among them who declared that the rum-carrying business was the most remunerative as well as adventurous calling they could think of.

All are being held for examination today.

BIRMINGHAMIAN LIVE IN WIGWAMS

Wooden Huts, Vans and Tents Shelter 8000 English Citizens.

London, Nov. 26.—"There must be between 8000 and 10,000 people living in caravans, wooden huts or corrugated iron huts within an eight-mile radius of the center of Birmingham."

This astonishing statement was made by Mr. Ford, a builder and contractor in the Duddleston and Nechells district of Birmingham.

A ten-mile journey over the grimy suburbs of Birmingham revealed the terrible straits to which many of the citizens are reduced.

In one square tent there were a woman, four or five children and two dogs. Tents like wigwams and army tents are used as homes.

Mr. Ford is providing people with cheap, temporary habitations that will afford them shelter until they can obtain other homes. He buys old vans and converts them into dwellings. One seen at his works is a clean, nicely decorated van, well ventilated, with a seat all around and a good serviceable cooking stove. It has a small room at the end large enough for a full-sized bed. The difficulty is to obtain enough vans to meet the demand.

Mr. Ford also supplies land. He bought 100 acres at Shirley, six miles south of Birmingham, and allotted plots to working men, who are now purchasing their freeholds by weekly payments. Some are building brick bungalows with their own hands, and are living for the time being in caravans or old furniture vans.

Others have bought lorries and have erected on them wooden shanties.

It is stated that 75 per cent of these van dwellers are ex-service men.

FIND NO TRACE OF CAR STOLEN AT FOOTBALL GAME

Machine of W. Refus Rings Taken Between 2:30 and 3:10 Saturday Afternoon.

No trace had been found this morning of the Ford touring car, owned by W. Refus Rings, Chambersburg street, which was stolen Saturday afternoon, between 2:30 and 3:10 o'clock, while the owner was attending the Gettysburg-Gallaudet football game at Nixon Field. Mr. Rings parked his machine on North Washington street in front of the Chemistry laboratory building at 2:30 o'clock. He watched part of the football game, leaving the grounds at 3:10 o'clock, when he discovered that the car was gone. He immediately notified Private Hugh Weston, of the local substation of the State police, who was on duty at the football game. Police in towns and cities nearby have been asked to be on the lookout for the machine which bore Pennsylvania license No. 611-587. The engine number is 3,535,328.

SHOW PAPERS PROVING FORBES' ARMY DECEPTION

(By Associated Press.) Washington, Nov. 26.—Papers said by War Department officials to show that at one time Charles R. Forbes, former director of the Veterans' Bureau, was dropped from the rolls of the Army as a deserter were turned over to the Senate Veterans' Committee today.

The record also was said to show that Forbes later was apprehended, served out this term of enlistment and was discharged without having been brought to trial.

ALBERT AGREES TO HEAD CABINET

Kaiser's Former Agent in America To Form New Ministry.

HEADED PROPAGANDAS

Used German Money To Buy New York Newspaper to Espouse Country's Cause During War, is Said.

Berlin, Nov. 26.—Dr. Heinrich F. Albert, who was Minister of the Treasury under Chancellor Cuno, has accepted President Ebert's invitation to form a new Cabinet.

The decision to invite Dr. Albert was reached after a prolonged conference which President Ebert had with Heinrich Brauns, Minister of Labor; Dr. Jarres, Minister of the Interior, and Dr. Otto Gessler, Minister of Defense. It is assumed that these three men will be members of the new Ministry if Dr. Albert is successful in forming it, and it is possible that the other outgoing Ministers may also remain in office.

Former Chancellor Stresemann, however, has refused the Foreign Ministry. The attitude of the Socialists toward an Albert Ministry would, it is understood, depend not only on its program but its composition.

Charged With Directing

German Plots in U. S. Dr. Heinrich F. Albert came to the United States in 1915 ostensibly to collect funds for the German Red Cross, though he was also said to be serving as commercial attaché of the German Embassy at Washington. When the United States severed diplomatic relations with Germany early in 1917 he returned to Berlin with Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador.

Accused of Propaganda

Shortly afterward it was reported, and the United States Secret Service was stated as the authority, that Dr. Albert had used his Red Cross post as a mask to direct German propaganda in America and to act as financial agent of schemes involving destruction of property, agitation for strikes in munition plants serving the Allies, and the flotation of German loans.

Upon his arrival in America Dr. Albert opened a large suite of offices in New York. It was reported that in the course of a few months he received $30,000,000 for German propaganda in the United States.

Documents Are "Lost"

A case full of his documents were "lost" and were subsequently said to have found their way into the hands of Secret Service agents. These documents were said to have contained full information as to Dr. Albert's activities in the United States, including steps taken to acquire control of a New York newspaper to espouse the cause of Germany.

After several charges against him had been made public Dr. Albert issued a lengthy statement in his own defense. He admitted that the German Government was seeking control of munition plants in the United States with the object of curtailing shipments to the Allies, but denied he had been interested in fomenting strikes. All his efforts in behalf of Germany, he said, were being conducted "in the open."

Further light was thrown on his activities during the Federal prosecution which resulted in the conviction of Dr. Edward A. Rumely and two associates of having concealed from the Alien Property Custodian that the New York Evening Mail had been bought with German money. It developed that Dr. Rumely had purchased the Mail with money advanced by Dr. Albert.

Dr. Allemen cited the British and Foreign Bible Society as the only other group publishing the Bible in any quantity, and said that its output has run up to 200,000,000 copies.

The speaker, through his position on the advisory board of the American Bible Society, has seen his committee confronted with unusual expenses for the coming year, he said, through the destruction in Yokohama by the recent earthquake there, of twenty-five different Oriental language plates for printing the Bible in those twenty-five languages of the East. This represents a monetary loss, he declared, of $289,000, which must be made up for in the budget this year.

The offering taken up in the College Church Sunday was turned over to the American Bible Society, and the fund for Gettysburg is to be held open throughout this week, according to Dr. Allemen, in order to allow others, in response to direct appeal and otherwise, to contribute to the work of the Society.

From their looks, they were used not only for their primary purpose, but as towels for machinists, shining shoes and wiping off the engine.

"Still, men are much more fastidious about their linen than they used to be. Where they used to change collars twice a week, they now change twice a day.

Collars Are Barometers

"The amount of dirt on men's collars is an accurate barometer of business," she said. "During hard times men wear them longer. After one side is soiled they turn them inside out and wear them that way. During good times they will not try to double the wear.

"Soft collars or semi-soft collars are gaining over the hard-boiled kind every day. The stiff collar is being supplanted by a collar that looks stiff, but isn't. Before the war a collar was good for thirty washings, but the quality has deteriorated now so that fifteen washings is all they will stand today, on the average.

"The daily grind of the laundry worker is not entirely prosaic. Washermen and women watch with a mother's care the bundles that come to them week after week."

"Mrs. Johnstone gave a party last week," said one. "She has eight children, I think. Anyway, all their party dresses came in covered with ice cream and cake, and Pa must have been there too, for it is the first time I have known him to send in a 'dicky' since I have been on this job."

"Some of our accounts are small," said the manager of a nearby laundry. "One man I know sends in a collar once a week, and a shirt every two weeks. Being charitable in my judgments, I presume he sends his underwear somewhere else."

local representative of the Old Age Pension Commission for Adams county.

In some states where old age pensions are granted, each county in the state has an old age pension board to which claims are made by applicants. As yet no such board has been appointed for Adams county. "It is thought likely, however, that since the Home Service section of the local Red Cross is in touch with local conditions, members of that service will be named on the board to determine the fitness of persons in Adams county entitled to share in the old age pensions.

In order to share in the old age pension an applicant must be seventy years of age or upward, a citizen of the United States for at least fifteen years and a resident of the county for fifteen years.

A High Reward

By REV. J. R. SCHAFER

Acting Superintendent of Men, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXAS—And the Lord went His way as soon as He had left communing with Abraham.—Gen. 15:22.

Faith is the invisible energy that relates the spiritual life of the believer to God.

"By grace are ye saved through faith."

"But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the children of God, even to them that believe on His name." Obedience is always the manifested conduct of the unseen faith that produces it. But it is one thing to be a child of God, another to be an obedient child. Faith opens to us the inexhaustible treasures of the divine wealth—obedience appropriates them in service. The measure of obedience differentiates Christians. God longs to bestow His best upon all His children, but He is hindered by unwillingness, selfishness, stupidity. He cannot give more than we can receive. Our capacity is limited because our faith is dwarfed and undeveloped. Abraham obeyed God's new call. God rewarded his obedience by admitting him to three marvelous privileges in the life of faith:

I. An Angelic Appearance of God (v. 1). "And the Lord appeared unto him, and he lifted up his eyes and looked and lo, three men stood by him."

This was a different method of divine revelation. God appeared in distinct form, the same as that of two companions, and presented himself at the door of Abraham's tent on the plains of Mamre. The three were angelic, yet they looked like men; heavenly, yet they spoke the language of earth and conformed to its conditions; spiritual, yet they ate material food. Here was a reality that brought God so very near, down into the common plane of human conditions, even to the acceptance of human hospitality. This was a new kind of comradeship, quite different from solitude, contemplation and spiritual ecstasy. It was a wondrous foreshadowing of the incarnation—the mystery life of God as man living His life in earthly conditions. How near Christ has come to men, but nearer still does He come to us as He relieves His earthly life in us today, as we trust and obey.

II. Communicated Heaven's Secret (v. 17). "Shall I hide from Abraham the thing which I do?"

The beautiful city of Sodom with its prosperity, its power and vast possibilities for truth and righteousness, had become a place of pleasure and prodigality. The cup of iniquity was full—it could not continue in its vile corruption. As the breeding place of a loathsome infection, it must be destroyed. Drunk with pleasure, delirious with success, it was all unsuspecting. God confided to Abraham the awful secret of what He must do. He wanted to share His burden with a man, His friend. On Abraham, what a privilege to be the confidant of God! Blessed foreshadowing of the day when Jesus said: "Henceforth I call you not servants; for all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you."

God has told us His secrets. Among them is His plan of the ages—the future of this world. What is His estimate of it? Is it a Sodom? You cannot learn God's estimate of the world from the world. Alone with God, walking before Him in obedience is the place of revealed secrets. He confides to His friends what He will do. They have an understanding of His word that makes them intelligent.

III. Intercession for the Imperiled (v. 31). "Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord."

This is a third privilege of great value. To plead with God for the salvation of men transcends all other opportunities. It links us to the compassionate heart of God more closely than any other service we can render. We instinctively cry to God for the salvation of sinners when God reveals His secrets to us. God confides in us when we walk before Him in the light of His word and obey when He speaks. This is the source of intercessory prayer—a great staggering burden for the unsaved. Abraham could plead for Sodom because He was not a part of it, was unaffected by its affairs, had no investments in it. Only the Christian, untainted by the world, can conscientiously intercede for the world's lost sinners. Separation is the only sure insulation for the current of prayer power. This is the condition of intercessory prayer.

Abraham prayed. Lot and his family were delivered out of the doomed city. "Prayer changes things." Nothing but prayer will change the sinful heart and save the doomed sinner. We need intercessors, children of God who have been called to this high reward for obedience, selected to learn the divine secrets that will turn them to pray, to stand before God representing the lost and pleading the cause of guilty sinners. Who will obey? God calling still, shall I not hear? Lord, teach us to pray.

Self-Denial.

There is more heroism in self-denial than in deeds of arms.—Seneca.

Never judge neighbors by what you see hanging on their clothes lines.

THE KING-PIN OF ALL WHITE ELEPHANTS

Diamonds of Malopo

by VICTOR ROUSSEAU

Voluntarily Winton turned, to perceive that the man with his hat over his eyes had pushed it up and was watching the older one with a smile of amusement. Winton thought his face was one of the most sinister that he had ever seen. He was about forty years of age, and not ill-looking; but the smile on his countenance was a wolfish snarl. There was greed there and cruelty, and utter heartlessness.

Yawning, the man rose, and, without a word of apology, strode over the strap, pushing between the seated passengers. He went over to the girl. Beside her was an inoffensive little clerk. He jerked him by the arm.

"I'll change places with you," he said peremptorily.

The little clerk rose obediently and made his way across the strap, the other passengers, who had not dared to resent his first disturbance, remonstrating vehemently as they dislodged themselves to allow him passage.

"Well, Sheila, my dear," said the newcomer, grinning at the girl's face, "kind to see you. I'd been wondering how you could stay away from your old friend De Witt so long."

He was referring evilently to himself. Winton started at the name. He had an introduction to De Witt in his pocket, but now he hardly felt like presenting it.

De Witt sat down beside the girl. There was nothing in the man's words that need be especially offensive in a free-and-easy community, but the familiarity of the coarse tones, which made the girl wince, stung Winton to fury.

"Well, who'd have thought to see you here, Daddy Seaton?" the man continued. "Come to try your luck on the fields? It's never too late to strike it rich. You and I have been old friends, daddy, since those days down at Sand River."

The old man, who had been watching the other like a fascinated rabbit, put out one hand with an involuntary gesture which seemed to be warding off a blow.

"I—didn't know you were here, Mr. De Witt," he gulped.

"Or you would have given Malopo a wide berth, eh?" laughed the other. "Well, never mind, daddy. Friends like you and me stand together through thick and thin—eh, Sheila?"

Winton saw the appealing look in the girl's eyes. But he restrained himself. There was nothing he could do; he had no knowledge as to the relationship, if any, existing between the girl and De Witt. And while he was trying to keep his anger under control, the coach stopped at the first post.

The passengers were glad to stretch their legs after the ten-mile drive. The mules, unharnessed, rolled in the dust delightedly, while their ten successors came dancing through the corral. They were insipid, the driver cracked his whip, and once more the coach was off and away, and the post only a fleck upon the bosom of the sand.

It was insufferably hot. The whirling dust found its way through the crevices had him by the throat, but lost his hold. Winton grew calmer. The others were almost upon them, and he meant to punish De Witt before they were separated. He watched for his opportunity, and as De Witt, flinching under a short and comparatively harmless jab at his face, opened a space between his body and his extended arms, Winton shot his right upward with the full force of his body behind it.

It was a deadly blow at close range, permitting the extension of the striker's arm to the full, with no possibility of an ounce of the driving-power being lost. It caught De Witt upon the point of the jaw, and the man dropped where he stood. A moment later Winton stood, quite collected, in the hands of the other passengers, who, seeing that the fight was over, turned their attention to the man on the ground.

De Witt was unconscious and breathing heavily. Somebody ran back for water. Another man produced a flask of brandy and got some of the contents between De Witt's teeth. Presently De Witt began to splutter. He sat up, saw and recognized Winton, and his eyes filled with deadly hatred.

"I'll get even with you for this," he mumbled.

But there was no more fight in him. Solicitously attended by the little clerk whom he had ousted from his seat so unceremoniously, De Witt staggered back to the coach, resuming his old place in the corner, with his hat pulled over his discolored forehead.

He looked so abject and crestfallen, with his swollen lip and bruised jaw that Winton almost felt pity for him. But it was certain that De Witt deserved no pity. The man was a bully and a cad and had got his deserts.

After the coach had started, Sheila Seaton bent forward and spoke to Winton.

And socks, how about your socks? Tell everybody what size you wear so Santa Claus will bring you some.

Do your getting mad early and avoid the rush. Squabble now to avoid giving her a Christmas present.

Who will send you Christmas cards, that's the question. You had better send out about a million.

Who gave you unexpected presents last Christmas? You can get even. Give them presents this year.

How about your enemies? Give them Christmas presents such as folding beds, saxophones and prunes.

As Christmas presents for government employees we suggest ham-mocks, easy chairs and lounges. Make people happy this Christmas. Break up your old phonograph records to make neighbors happy.

A Christmas present would cheer the street car conductor. His life is dull since longer skirts.

The laundry folks need Christmas presents. Sew a million buttons on a shirt for them to tear off.

Give the policeman Christmas presents. Make friends of them. They may help you in a pinch.

How about the pressing shop? They need Christmas presents. Give them an old suit to burn as they please.

Shake hands with a collector and invite him in so the neighbors will not know he is a collector.

Treat your neighbors nice. If you didn't have any neighbors your neighborhood would be deserted.

Never turn up your nose at the neighbors. It may rain in your face and give you a bad cold.

Neighbors have their uses. They might talk about what you did and this keeps you from doing it.

STATING THE CASE FRANKLY

The esteemed pastor of the Gettysburg Reformed church, in a communication addressed to the editor of The Times and published in this newspaper Saturday, deploring the lack of general interest in the Red Cross Roll Call now in progress and charity movements in general, stated the case pretty plainly when he said:

"We put on our Sunday clothes and say to all the American people: 'Come and take in all our places of interest and beauty and especially don't fail to bring your pocketbook with you, for we are a dependent people,—we are a charitable institution.'"

"We are a mighty good bunch of receivers, but a terrible poor lot of givers. The American people are keeping us on 'easy street' here in Gettysburg and we are so much concerned about the millions coming to us annually and leaving their coin with us that we forget that we are Americans also and should share in helping the needy and afflicted at our very door."

Leadership, as Reverend Horn says, is woefully lacking, but the more important, the spirit to inspire leadership, is also missing. We appear to be largely a community of knockers instead of boosters. In this, the church itself is partly to blame for it is there that the spirit of charity should be nurtured and fostered.

We boast of being a cultured community; if we are, it is a selfish culture. We have no public library, our schools are overcrowded, our facilities for public comfort and welfare are inadequate and nauseating, we have no meeting place of any kind large enough to encourage the development of the arts; the lone institution of which we can boast—the hospital, is constantly the butt of unwarranted criticism from the self-contented element of citizens who ought to be loudest in singing its praises.

We are always on the defensive. When a movement looking to the public welfare or the benefit of those less fortunate than ourselves is announced, we quickly cast about for reasons to ridicule and defeat it and keep our bank roll intact. When a man displays an ordinary amount of initiative and gives semblance of rising to leadership, he is soundly squelched, and few, if any, men are attracted to a town the size of Gettysburg who can successfully withstand the "graff" and rise above the crowd. Discouraged, they sit back for a time and wonder; then are gradually drawn into the current of self-satisfaction and contentment and are carried along with the tide. They either become knockers or indifferent, and there is little difference between the two.

A town cannot long stand still. It must either go forward or backward. We don't believe Gettysburg is hopeless, by any means. But we confess we are at a loss to suggest a way to arouse the community from the lethargy and self-satisfied feeling into which it has slipped and from which it certainly must be aroused if there is to be progress.

Reverend Horn has very frankly stated the case as he sees it. Further discussion of our weaknesses along the same line is invited in the columns of The Times. What is needed to make Gettysburg more alive to its needs and opportunities? What can be done to inspire a greater feeling and spirit of unselfishness which is bound to react to the greater good and happiness of each and every individual? If you have not yet read Reverend Horn's letter to the editor, look it up now and then send along your views.

SUCCESS

If you're afraid of a set-back or two,
If you're afraid of a jolt or a jar,
If hard work is something which terrifies you,
Then stay where you are.

If more than a chance for success you desire,
If you're afraid of a blow and its smart,
If you've no pluck for the fight when you tire,
You'd better not start.

If you can't trudge through the rain and the snow,

Forgetting the calm of an easier task,
If always the comforts of life you must know,
For glory don't ask.

If you can't stand to the battle alone,
Can't cling to your purpose through thick and through thin,
If pleasure means more than the goal you would own,
You've no chance to win.

If you've the will to be somebody here,
If stronger your spirit rebounds from a blow,
If you will work for it year after year,
Success you may know.

ter to the editor, look it up now and then send along your views.

CHEATING AND CRAMMING

It is announced that one of the large universities of the East is considering the discontinuance of all its mid-year and final examinations because of "failure of students to study throughout the year" and "lack of honor at examination time."

Those are two reasons for dropping final examinations. Others have been given before in schools which have been trying to solve the examination problem.

Leading educators have come to feel that the final examination has been over-emphasized. So much stress has been placed upon it that regular work was made to appear less important than the final grade. Periodic cramming and neglect of studies in the intervals between cramming were the natural results. The fine value of an examination, which should come through reviewing, summing up and co-ordinating the facts learned and ability developed during the weeks of study, was lost.

Cheating and failure to study are serious faults which are not the general rule among American college students. That they exist at all, however, indicates that there is need of adjustment of some sort in the educational system. That is what schools like the one here mentioned and others that have previously taken up these matters are seeking. There need be no despair about the degeneracy of undergraduate honesty and ability, for the adjustment will be made, and lazy and dishonest students will be found to be decidedly in the minority.

L. A. Molesworth Dies

FREDERICK.—Stricken suddenly with a heart attack, while at an entertainment in Brook Hill chapel, near Yellow Springs, shortly after 9 o'clock, Friday evening, Lewis A. Molesworth, merchant at Bartholows, died in his automobile about an hour later, while on the way to the Frederick City Hospital. While subject to heart attacks, Mr. Molesworth was in his usual health on Friday, and left in his machine for the church social. Soon after arriving there, he was taken ill. When his condition did not improve, he was brought to Frederick to the office of Dr. F. H. Hedges, who at once recognized the patient's extreme illness. Restoratives were administered, and Mr. Molesworth was placed in the auto to be taken to the hospital, accompanied by Miss Pearl Thomas, of near Frederick, John Rynn and Dr. Hedges. Before the hospital was reached, Mr. Molesworth expired. Conscious until almost the very end, Mr. Molesworth realized his condition, and told those in the machine with him that he felt his end was near. He discussed with them certain matters about his business affairs, and even suggested, in event of death, that Mr. Falconer, the New Market undertaker, be called and have charge of his funeral.

Mail Boxes Are Disfigured

FREDERICK.—Letters requesting cooperation in the matter of preventing defacing mail boxes located in various parts of the city have been sent to the principals of all the county schools and Mayor Lloyd C. Culler by Postmaster Irving S. Biser. It was pointed out by Mr. Biser that new letter boxes have been placed at various points of the city and that, on those boxes, cards containing the time of mail collections have been placed. It seems as if these cards and also the boxes are being defaced. On a number of the boxes, said Mr. Biser, the inscription has been totally erased or disfigured to such an extent that the writing is not legible. Mr. Biser said that considerable time and trouble was necessary in order to place these cards on the boxes and that they were put there for the convenience of the public and that he desired that steps be taken immediately to see that the malefactors stop their destruction at once.

Congressman Ketcham to Speak

FREDERICK.—Those participating in the State-wide conference of farmers and business men to be held in this city on Monday and Tuesday will be addressed by Congressman John C. Ketcham, of Michigan, who will speak on the subject of national farm legislation. Congressman Ketcham is a member of the Farm Bloc and of the Farm Bureau and Grange. He will take the place of Gray Silver, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation, who is unable to attend.

Man Shows Love For Dog

HAGERSTOWN.—The mutual love of a dog and a man, exhibited at its greatest by the man only when the dog is lost or dies, led Congressman Charles Brand, of Urbana, Ohio, stopping overnight in Hagerstown on his way to Washington to attend the opening of the next Congress, on a frantic search through the streets of the city Friday night. Finally, in desperation, Mr. Brand went to police headquarters to seek aid. The Congressman's manner was excited. His small son had gone walking with his collie dog and the dog broke away from the boy. The police promised to help in the hunt. Mr. Brand continued his search through the streets, all the while whistling the tune that would be recognizable to the collie. A man whose name could not be learned took the dog to the hotel where the Brand family was staying, and stark tragedy abandoned the situation.

Y. M. C. A. Has Good Record

HAGERSTOWN.—Hagerstown's Y. M. C. A. not only reaches the average set by Y. M. C. A.'s in cities of this size all over the country, but in most cases it exceeds in the average of 100 per cent, by more than another hundred. This "Pan Graph" of the Hagerstown Y activities was made out by C. E. Steele, general secretary, after tables and statistics had been issued from the New York office, which were compiled from reports made to headquarters by Associations all over the country. Wise business management is seen in the highest figures reached by the local Association; on the net proportion of funds to operating expenses, Hagerstown hits 220 per cent, just 110 per cent higher than the standard. While the number of Bible classes and attendance at religious meetings is rated at 210 per cent, the table shows that expenses of religious work amount to only 80 per cent.

Stolen Auto Is Recovered

HAGERSTOWN.—The automobile of Emmons Corbett, which was taken from him by hold-up men Thursday night, was found abandoned at Huyett's Crossroads by Deputy Bowers Friday afternoon. Corbett was on his way to his home about two miles west of Hancock Thursday night. Two strangers hailed him and asked for a ride. He agreed and the men entered the machine. When they were almost to Corbett's home the men attacked Corbett and, after beating him into unconsciousness, robbed him of his automobile and valuables. Efforts to find the men have proved futile.

Franklin

Federal School Aid Rejected
CHAMBERSBURG.—Federal aid to schools, as embodied in the report of the resolutions committee of the Franklin County Teachers' Institute, was rejected by a unanimous vote Friday morning at the closing session of the institute. The resolution urged that the institute petition for federal aid in financing the schools as against state, county, city, borough and township aid as at present. Superintendent U. L. Gordy led the forces against the resolution. In driving home his point, Superintendent Gordy stated that in his experience with the vocational school problem in Chambersburg federal control had proved detrimental to the school system and failed to take proper cognizance of local conditions. Among the important resolutions adopted was one providing for the teaching of the Constitution of the United States in the public schools and another for stricter enforcement of the cigarette laws.

Sue for $79,000 For Fires

CHAMBERSBURG.—As the result of two fires on private property adjacent to Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, two lawsuits for damages totaling $79,000 have been entered against the railroad in the local courts. The largest amount is asked by Charles W. Sollenberger, John M. Ausherman and Thomas L. Ausherman, trading as the Fayetteville Feed & Grain Co., at East Fayetteville. They ask $65,000 for damages to their property by fire on April 11. Jacob R. Statler, of near Marion, has entered suit for $14,000 in recovery for property destroyed by fire on April 2. Both plaintiffs allege that the fires were caused by fire from locomotives of the railroad company.

Baby Scalds Self To Death

CHAMBERSBURG.—Paul Raymond Shetter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shetter, of Spring street, died Friday morning from the result of being scalded at his home Thursday. The child was playing in the kitchen at his home and upset a tub of hot water, scalding the lower part of his body. He was aged one year and nine months and is survived by his parents and an infant sister, Romaine Elizabeth. The body was taken to the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith, 740 East Washington street, this afternoon.

NEWS NOTES FROM TRINITY CHURCH

Mission Sunday at Reformed Church Calls Forth Special Program.

(Contributed)

"Missions" received special recognition at Trinity Sunday morning. A special program prepared by the Home Board of the denomination was used at the Church School. "The Challenge of Today" was the underlying thought. The past achievements were noted together with the present activities of the Mission Board. Special emphasis was put on the "unmet needs" as the great challenge of today. Parts were taken by the Superintendent N. B. Schnurman, Miss Ellen Tipton who represented America. In the absence of Professor Lefever the minister took the part of the church.

The church called upon various persons from the classes of the different grades for responses in order that America might know what the church is doing to help Christianize our country.

At the morning worship the Women's Missionary Society had arranged a program suitable to their annual Thanksgiving Service. Mrs. G. Rex read the scripture. Other parts were taken by Mrs. E. Stahle and Mrs. H. Sanders. Four of the members took up the offering. The music by the choir was in keeping with the occasion.

A good audience was present in the evening. The minister in a scholarly manner and greatly impressive and challenging presented the "Temptation of Jesus."

Practice on the Christmas program will begin Tuesday evening at 7:30. "Gramma's Christmas Eve" is the name of the cantata to be rendered Sunday evening before Xmas.

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College.

Selecting Breeding Cockerels—The proper time to select cockerels for the following breeding season is during the fall months. People who intend purchasing cockerels have a better opportunity to get better birds now than next spring when the supply is practically exhausted.

Rhubarb for Winter Use—If you have old clumps of rhubarb that need separating, it is a good plan to separate them now. Replant the younger roots and place the old roots on a pile, cover lightly with soil to prevent drying out, and allow them to freeze. About January first, place them in soil or ashes near the boiler in the cellar and keep them moist.

The result will be fine rhubarb for the table in January and February.

Cooling Milk in Winter—Just because the weather is cold is no guarantee that milk does not have to be cooled. A great quantity of milk is spoiled through insufficient cooling in winter. This is particularly true of the night's milk, and is due largely to efforts of the dairyman to keep the milk from freezing.

For the Young Pigs—The young pigs may well have alfalfa, clover or soybean hay before them wherever possible. It will lessen the tankage requirements and furnish a filler which will do as a winter substitute for pasture. Experiments have proved that legume hay, especially alfalfa, is also a good feed to keep before the brood sow. The hay should be bright and clean and not too coarse.

MARKET BUREAU'S REPORT ON APPLES

Movements and Prices of Fruit by Barrel and Bushel Are Given Daily.

Apple shipments totaled 618 cars on November 23, as compared with 725 cars on the preceding day. Quite a decrease was noted in Pennsylvania shipments which totaled only 16 cars. Washington led the boxed apple territory with 253 cars. Idaho shipped 32 cars, Missouri 6, New Mexico 4, Oregon 46 and Northern California 20.

Very few sales were reported. In the Wenatchee section of Washington, extra fancy Winesaps of medium and very large sizes were quoted at $1.50 per box. In the Yakima territory, 1 grade Winesaps of medium and large sizes brought 85c per box. Western New York reported too few sales to establish market, with many consignments.

The Cock and the Gem

A cock came down from his roost at dawn and scratched the ground in search of food. By and by, he turned up a fine gem. He gave it a kick and muttered softly to himself, "Huh, you're a fine thing, no doubt, but to my mind one good grain of wheat is worth all the gems in the world."

It's all in the way you look at it. The wealth of the universe wouldn't be worth much to you if it couldn't buy you something to eat. Inversely, the more you can buy for your money, the more your money is worth.

The advertisements are intimate lessons in buying efficiency. They teach you how to get the most in value and enjoyment for the least money. They give you knowledge that pays.

That is why the shopper who reads the advertisements always has the advantage when it comes to stretching the dollars.

Millions of thrifty folks find that it pays them well to be guided by the advertisements.

So will you.

Changing the Calendar

By REV. JOHN C. PAGE

Teachers of Bible Doctrine, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—This month shall be unto you the beginning of months. It shall be the first month of the year to you.—Exod. 12:1.

It is no easy matter to change the customs and habits of a nation or of an individual. Humanly speaking such changes are not only difficult but practically impossible. So many readjustments are involved, and so great is the danger of confusion and chaos, that they are never seriously contemplated. But Jehovah is the God of the impossible. In creation "He spoke and it was done. In redemption "He brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, the great Shepherd of the sheep." He changed the calendar of Israel, bringing the old order to an end and introducing a new.

With redemption by blood, every thing begins anew. "If any man be in Christ he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."—II Cor. 5:17. When a sinner puts his faith where God put his sins, then our text finds a spiritual and personal application and to that one it may be said: "This shall be unto you the beginning of months." "With men, this is impossible; but with God, all things are possible." Tens of thousands can even now from experience testify concerning a translation from darkness to light, from the old to the new, brought about by the power of God in response to faith. To such witnesses this event is the beginning of months, the introduction of a new calendar, the beginning of a new life.

The outstanding features in the new calendar may be considered in these three words—deliverance, departure and direction. Deliverance is first and fundamental. It is accepted by faith in the Word of God and obedience to the prescribed conditions. Faith accepts the blood of the Lamb as the divine judgment upon sin, and in that blood shelter and safety is found. When the destroying angel passed through the land of Egypt that eventful night, every house on which the blood of the Lamb was sprinkled was passed over. No angel of judgment could enter it, for judgment had already taken place, and it is impossible for sin to be judged twice. Hence the word of the Lord: "When I see the blood, I will pass over you, and will not suffer the destroyer to come in unto your house to smite you." The most serious question for any and every soul of man is this: "Have you sprinkled the blood?" God has passed judgment on all human sin at Calvary. "Christ died for our sins." Through faith in His blood all the value and virtue of the atoning work of the Son of God comes to us. The blood avails: nothing else does. "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy, he saved us." "When I see the blood, I will pass over you."

After deliverance, comes departure. There must be separation from that which has been judged and condemned, separation from sin and the world which is typified of Egypt. In the ordinance of the first born, which follows that of the passover, God asserts His right to possess that which has been purchased. The New Testament presents the same truth in the words: "Ye are not your own; ye are bought with a price." That which has been delivered by divine power is to be devoted to the divine service and glory. Herein the redeemed find their greatest happiness and development "Yield yourselves to God as those that are alive from the dead."

After deliverance from judgment and departure from Egypt, directions were given concerning the pilgrimage upon which the people had entered. It is not enough to be delivered; it is not enough to be devoted. There is still further need to be directed: "Speak to the children of Israel, that they encamp . . . by the sea." This was God's choice, not theirs. To be in His way is to be where He is. Obedience brought them into a severe trial, but the trial of faith is precious and necessary. Out of that trial came an experimental knowledge of God's power over the enemy, which strengthened faith, developed courage, and caused them to rejoice in God their Savior. During the crisis, they were reduced to helplessness and despair. Like the wretched man in the seventh chapter of Romans, they cried out saying: "Who shall deliver?" Then it was that the Lord fought for His people and they witnessed and experienced His saving power, so that sobbing was changed to singing.

Deliverance, devotion, direction—these are the great outstanding things in the new calendar and the new life.

Superior to Every Fate. A life well lived and rightly adjusted to both the transient and the eternal rises superior to every possible fate. We need optimism for health, for courage, for happiness; we get it by harmony with God and with His laws. Achieving this, nothing can finally go wrong.

Never get too mad at your neighbors. Very often your enemies this week are your friends next week.

Party Dresses

Ruffles always did belong to young girls and they seem more than ever popular. They may be so wide as to be really flounces or may be narrow and numerous. Soft pink crepe, white crepe trimmed with pink or blue, white georgette over a color—these frocks have no hint of sophistication but their charm is indisputable.

922 MEN CUT OFF IN MINE BLAST

Eleven, Badly Burned, Taken Out; 60 Not Accounted For.

(By Associated Press.) West Frankford, Ill., Nov. 26.—Eleven men badly burned have been taken from the Orient mine, four miles from here, where an explosion occurred this morning. Sixty men were still unaccounted for, about thirty-five of whom are supposed to be in the mine behind the fire.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Nine hundred and twenty-two men were in the Orient mine this morning when an explosion cut off their retreat. Rescue squads have accounted in safety for all, but three score of the men.

The explosion was caused by gas and a great disaster probably was averted by the barrier system in use at the mine.

The explosion occurred on a level 500 feet below the surface.

HOME COMFORT

Home comfort is typically American. No other people in the world have so many domestic conveniences.

Foreigners marvel at the things which American house-keepers take for granted, such as gas equipped kitchens, instantaneous hot water heaters, etc. Americans accept these without thought of where they come from, yet the story of their development is not an old one.

The gas stove has been practical only since 1880. 45,000,000 people in 4,600 American communities depend upon it for the preparation of their food. This has been accomplished by careful study by gas experts to meet the public need.
